An Appreciation

For twenty-six years Professor Miller was a member of the staff of the West Central School and Station, and during nineteen of these years he served as Superintendent. When he came to the institution, it bore the earmarks of the Indian school it once had been. Under his administration it became a well developed, evenly balanced institution which might easily excite the covetous spirit of educators interested in agricultural research and teaching. Suitable housing for students was provided; class room buildings, barns and laboratories in keeping with needs were constructed, and additions were made to the farm.

Neatness and orderliness have always been in evidence at Morris around the buildings, experimental plots and fields. These marks of careful supervision have been merely outward indications of the fundamental principles by which Professor Miller has been guided in his administration of the school and station. He has constructed school curricula and station programs with painstaking care. He has selected members of staff only after careful study of candidates with respect to their fitness for the positions involved. He has never neglected the supervision of the day by day school and station programs.

In sum, Professor Miller has been faithful to his task, loyal to his official superiors and considerate of those under his supervision. He richly deserves recognition for the very large part he has played in building a fine institution which is contributing so much to the rural welfare of Minnesota.

SCHOOL HOURS

A visitor on the West Central Campus during school hours finds a varied program in progress. In Agricultural Hall, in the Home Economics Building, in Music Hall and in the Engineering Building West Central Aggies can be found attending classes. On the following pages are pictured students and faculty as we see them during school hours.

"Knowledge is Power". So spoke a wise individual, but he forgot to complete the statement. Knowledge without action is not power, but when translated into action it is the power to live usefully, to live happily, and to make a successful living.

The Senior Class has in this book translated its knowledge into action, and the result has been very gratifying. All of us here at school will have a permanent record of the year's happenings because of your efforts, and to you, the Senior Class of 1938, we are indeed grateful.

As each of you goes out into life, you will continue to translate your knowledge into action. Some will be more successful than others, depending upon how effectively you use the knowledge at your command. My wish is that all of you may continue to learn, and that the knowledge you accumulate may be used to make a successful life and a comfortable living.

AFTER SCHOOL

A visitor on the West Central Campus after school hours finds that activity is by no means ended with the ringing of the 4:15 bell. In the gymnasium, in the auditorium, and in all of the buildings students can be found preparing for the various contests in which West Central Aggies take part.

Campus Activities

During the course of the year there are many opportunities to participate in extra-curricular activities. Students who have musical talent may become members of the orchestra, band, mixed chorus and the cast for the operetta. Those interested in dramatics and forensics have an opportunity to appear behind the footlights in the Senior and Advanced Class Plays and also to become members of the debate and declamation teams. A place on the stock and grain judging teams is the goal of many of the boys. Shooting matches attract others. Members of the Moccasin Board accept the responsibility of recording permanently the events of the school year in the publication of the yearbook.

"It's the Gypsy in Me"

"The Gypsy Rover" will undoubtedly be the outstanding event on this year's musical program. The story of the operetta is that Rob, played by Henry DeVries, is stolen as an infant by his nurse Meg, acted by Helen Olson, who has become the wife of Marto (Marvin Olson). Many years afterward Constance, played by Hazel Brevig, meets Rob and they fall in love. Their plans for elopement are overheard by Lord Craven (Eugene Regan) who informs Sir George (Thilbert Sandvig). Other effective scenes are those between Nina (Elva Cook) and Captain Jerome (Herman Schelter), and Zara (Muriel Kottke) and Sinfo (Clifford Hammerberg). Miss O'Connor will act as musical director and Mr. Long as dramatic coach.

"Where's My Baby?"

"Second Childhood", a three-act farce presented by the Advanced Class, centers around the discovery of the Elixir of Youth discovered by Professor Relyea, played by Edwin Johnson, and his assistant, Phil Stanton, played by Leslie Lindor. The results of the supposed administering of a dose of the elixir to General Burbeck (Herman Schelter) and the arrival of his daughter-in-law (Marcine Nelson) and her baby create bewildering and amusing situations. Other parts in the play were taken by Irene Podratz, Doris Swanson, Harold Grothem, Barbara Dewey, Lorraine Krieg, Eva Johansen, James Conroy, and Ernest Freese. The production staff included Miss Jelstrup, coach, Pauline Weber, costume manager, Francis Foley, business manager, Stanley Magnuson and Glendon Rose, property managers.

"Talking Through Your Hat"

Declamation is an activity which attracts a large number of contestants, all of whom have as their goal a place on the declamation teams which will compete against the Central School at St. Paul. From the large number of contestants who tried out, six students were chosen to represent the school, and an alternate for each division was also selected. Russel Dyer and LeVerne Koehler will deliver orations in the contest; Mary Geifer and Elva Cook will represent the school in the dramatic division, and Lloyd Brandt and Joyce Sandvig will compete in the humorous division. Alternates are Stanley Block, Elsie Gimmestad, and Clifford Hammerberg.

"Allow Me To Quote" - -

In the debate room in Agricultural Hall all day long and far into the night arguments are being fired back and forth by members of the debate squad. It is here that Mr. Prickett's crew of debaters are preparing to meet teams from the Agricultural School of St. Paul and Crookston. From this group two teams will be selected to represent the school in debate. The question is "Resolved, that the several states should adopt the unicameral system of legislature." Members of the debate squad are unanimous in their opinion that the benefits which they derive from participation in debate justify the efforts which they put forth.

Under the direction of Mr. Fenske the boys who are aspirants for positions on the Stock Judging Team work each afternoon, attempting to pick the best animal of the various classes. Under the leadership of Mr. Bridgford another group works at selecting the top grain samples. The boys put forth their best efforts with the hope that they may become members of the teams which journey to Crookston for the Red River Valley Winter Shows where they meet judging teams from other schools with whom they compete in the contest. The teams which have been selected this year will endeavor to uphold the excellent record made by former judging teams.

Sharp Shooters

The report of rifles could be heard coming from the rifle range in Senior Hall very soon after school opened in the fall. Some veterans of former years as well as a number of new enthusiasts have become members of this organization. The sharp shooters are discovered at a preliminary contest for marksmanship. Requirements of a good marksman are steady nerves, accuracy and the time for consistent practice. Valuable training and sport are acquired from this activity. The bi-weekly matches have been of great interest to the members, many of whom are striving to become Expert Riflemen. Distinguished Rifleman is the highest ranking obtainable in the Junior Rifle Corps.

"There's Music in the Air"

The fact that there are musical organizations such as the band and the mixed quartette on the campus has made the school year a more enjoyable one for us all. It is the band which has aroused much of the enthusiasm and pep for events such as football games and pep meetings. On Homecoming Day the band, attired in maroon and gold capes and caps, led the parade through town, ending up at the football field. The band is under the direction of Mr. John Anderson, whose ability and boundless enthusiasm accounts for much of the success of this organization.

"Let's Sing Again"

The announcement that one of the quartettes or the mixed chorus will sing at an assembly program is always a welcome one to the student body. At a number of programs during the year the entire assembly period has been given over to the music department, and in many instances a musical number has opened the program. Especially popular this year has been the Boys' Quartette who made their first appearance at the Homecoming Banquet. Miss Margaret O'Connor, a new-comer on the campus this year, has been responsible to a marked degree for the high standards of these musical groups.

"Let's Get Down to Brass Tacks"

"Drums of Death" will be presented on March 23 by the Senior Class, under the direction of Mr. Long. Celeste (Elva Cook) is a native of the West Indies, who goes into a trance frequently, during the course of which only Jules (Elder Jackson) can talk to her. Jules is the ignorant but loyal servant of Harley Sheldon (Hugo Parson). Mrs. Gillette (Mary Geifer), Amelia Gillette (Mildred Larsen), Eugenia Bowles (Gazella Tripp), and Paula Bailey (Joyce Sandvig) arrive at the Bailey home as the result of a telegram sent by Doctor Cameron (Leonard Baldry). "Lest We Forget"

Each Senior Class publishes a yearbook in which are pictured the events which have taken place throughout the school year. It is the aim of each class to make its chapter in the history of the school an attractive one and to publish a book which will be increasingly valuable to the students. The Moccasin Board selected by the Senior Class of 1938 is headed by Mary Geifer, editor; and Leonard Baldry, business manager. Other members of the board are Paul Smith, assistant editor; Hugo Parson, assistant business manager; Garnet Larsen, Truman Hagen, and Dale Benson, snapshot editors; Earl Smith, athletic editor; and Joyce Sandvig and Clifford Hammerberg, organization editors.

OUR ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Because of the many different athletic activities and the large number of students who participate in them, our athletic program arouses a great deal of interest on the campus. The nature of these activities develops a sportsmanlike attitude in the individuals who take part, as well as affording an opportunity for physical development.

The 1937 football season opened on October 8 when Coach Heine took his squad to Fergus Falls to play the high school team. This was the first occasion on which the Morris Aggies had played under the lights. Fergus scored once in each of the first three quarters, but as the game wore on, the Morris boys seemed to strengthen and succeeded in holding their opponents scoreless and in counting one touchdown for themselves. The first touchdown was scored in the first few minutes of playing time. Two more touchdowns were made by the opposing team in the third quarter. Late in the fourth quarter Morris intercepted a pass and from that point Spaulding passed to Lindor, who carried the ball down across the goal line for the Aggies' only touchdown.

In the two weeks following the Fergus game, our team met with two defeats—one at the hands of the alumni, and the other, the Windom High School team. In the alumni game the only scores made in the first half were a safety by the alumni and a touchdown by the Aggie Team. The third quarter found the alumni scoring again, making two touchdowns. Parson carried the ball over for the last touchdown of the game. Final score was 14-12.

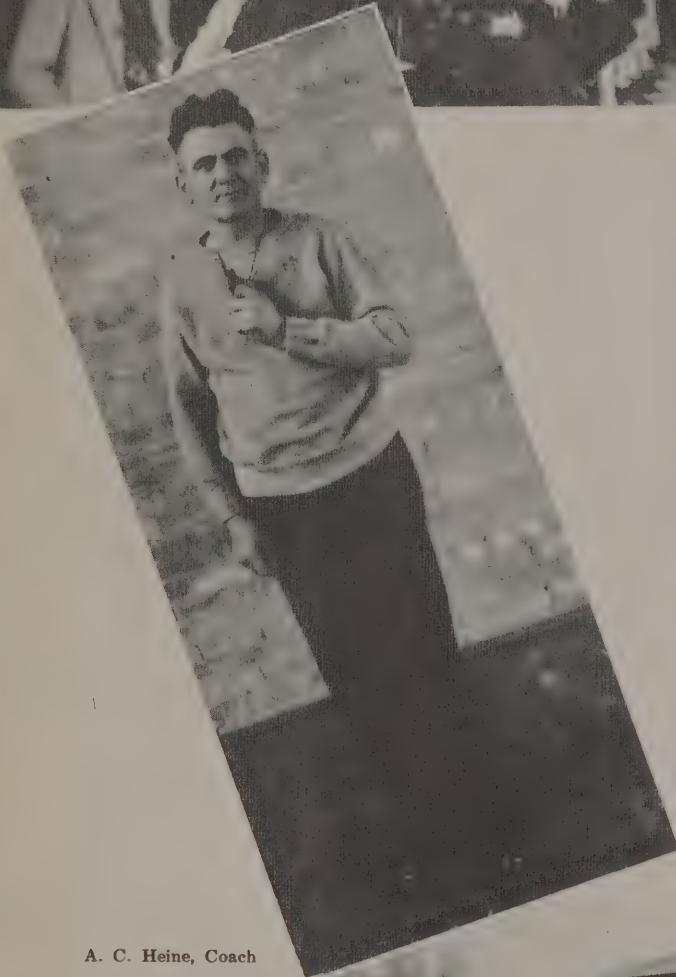

In the game with Windom the opponents scored twice in the first quarter and once in the second. In the third quarter Spaulding carried the ball over for a touchdown, and the try for point was good. Windom crossed our goal line once in the third quarter—and again in the fourth.

ON THE GRIDIRON

Pepping up school spirit

A. C. Heine, Coach

The week following the game at Windom was spent in preparation for another opponent who was admittedly out of our class. This was the game with the Concordia College Freshmen. The game was played at Moorhead under weather conditions more favorable for baseball than for football. Our boys could not stop the Cobbler yearlings' attack. Despite the defeat, the local boys acquired some valuable experience which should help them in their future Aggie games. Our boys were outweighed, and found themselves pitted against a tricky back-field and an almost invincible line. The result was that the freshmen completed six marches across our goal line and made good three of the extra points, amassing a total of 39 points, while the Aggies were unable to put the ball across the goal line. No doubt the experience gained in this encounter was a contributing factor to the victory that the Aggie team scored over the Park River gridders on the following Friday.

Lending moral support

Hit that line!

It was an inspired football team that fought its way through four quarters of hard football on Friday, November 5, on the local field and came through with their first victory of the year—a 7-0 triumph over the Park River, North Dakota, Agricultural School team. The local team forged ahead early in the first quarter when Grothem sprinted thirty yards for the only touchdown of the game. Spaulding made good the try for point. In the second quarter Parson caught a punt in midfield and crossed the goal line but the play was called back because of a clipping penalty called on a Morris player. From this point on it was an even battle. In the third quarter Park River came back strong. Starting from their thirty-yard line they advanced to the Morris Aggies' twenty-yard line, where Baldry stopped their threat to score by intercepting a pass. That was the last serious scoring threat of the game.

Crookston reserves

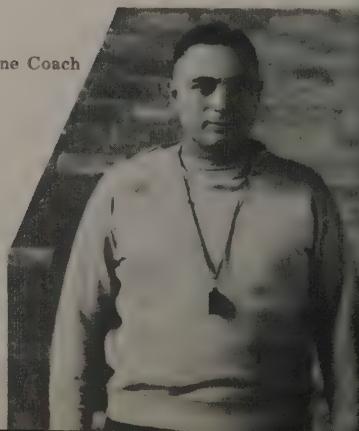

On Homecoming Day, November 11, the Morris Aggies' team battled to a scoreless tie with the Northwest School of Agriculture of Crookston. The game was one of sudden changes, both sides seemingly able to advance the ball at will in the middle of the field but neither able to cross those last few precious yard stripes that meant a touchdown and victory. The Morris Aggies took the ball in the first quarter and after an exchange of punts advanced it to the nine-yard line. Then with four downs in which to make the last nine yards, a touchdown seemed in the making. However, one of those unlucky penalties put the Morris Aggies back five yards more and there the hard-fighting Crookston fellows refused to move. Both sides played hard, clean football, and the game was an interesting one to watch.

The only thing lacking to make it entirely satisfactory was the missing touchdown.

Just before the battle

Student Manager Ed. Johnson arose early on the morning of November 18 and roused out sixteen men who were for once willing to get up at 4:30 A. M. The football fellows left at 5:30 for Curtis, Nebraska, a distance of 589 miles, in cars driven by Mr. Heine, Mr. Prickett, Mr. Bridgford, and Mr. Beckstrom. The faculty and students at the Curtis Agricultural School proved to be gracious hosts, the only thing not to the boys' liking being the defeat which they administered. The speed and accuracy of the Nebraska boys over-whelmed our team, and it went down in defeat to the tune of 44-6. During the second quarter Spaulding was injured and had to leave the game. Captain Grothem was also injured and forced to leave the field. The boys who made the trip are looking forward to meeting the Nebraska team on our home field next fall.

The annual football contest which decides the football supremacy of the freshman and junior classes was played this fall on Monday, Nov. 2, and proved to be an unusually hotly-contested battle. Mr. Edson, veteran of many similar contests, pronounced it the best demonstration of football technique of any intramural football game at this school. In the assembly period the coaches introduced the members of their squads to the student body, who flocked to the football field that afternoon to cheer on their respective teams.

The game opened with the kick-off by the Freshman Team under the leadership of Captain Ingvor Buhl. The first quarter passed with neither side gaining very many yards. Toward the end of the second quarter the freshmen showed that they meant to win the game and marched down the field to the two yard line with Underwood and Nielsen making considerable gains around the ends and Fossum bucking the line. Then they were thrown for a three yard loss. The next play, however, was a smash over the tackle and left the juniors on the short end of a 7-0 score.

The second half of the game started with the freshmen again kicking off. The game during the third quarter was played largely in junior territory. Finally they were pushed back to their own goal and were forced to punt. The punt was blocked and recovered by the freshmen, to be carried over the goal for the second touchdown of the game. The score was now 13-0 in favor of the freshmen. The fourth quarter was the reverse of the third, with the juniors maneuvering the ball in the freshman territory with Dyer hitting the line and James Parson, captain of the juniors, running the end until a touchdown was gained, for the junior team. They successfully made their try for point and the game ended with the juniors trailing, 13-7.

West Central Aggies

The gloomy expression which Coach Heine reputedly wears at the outset of the season was gloomier than usual on the first day of basketball practice. Only one veteran from last year, Hugo Parson, had returned for this season, and it soon became evident that this year's team was to be one of the youngest quintets to represent our school on the basketball court. The squad which consists of several recruits from class basketball teams of last year and Hime Goldberg, former Morris High School star, was strengthened after Christmas by the return of Dan Olsen, last year's captain.

On The Basketball Court

The boys lost no time in proving that they meant to play "heads up" basketball. In the seven games which have been played thus far our team has chalked up five victories and two defeats, one of which was meted out by the Park River Aggies in the only game before Christmas. A series of games with independent quints from Holloway, Beardsley, and Donnelly and teams from Herman High School and Wahpeton Science have given the boys valuable experience for the conference games to be played on February 5 and February 19 with the Aggie teams of St. Paul and Crookston.
